Cornwall Council report

Cornwall Cllr Julian Rand reported that he was self-isolating as he was over 70. There had been a spike in contentious planning applications during the lockdown. The Chairman and Clerk agreed. Everyone at Cornwall Council was working extremely hard and had been congratulated by the Government for the speed with which it distributed the small business grant. A virtual full council meeting was held a week earlier, which was getting political as an election was due May 2021. The meeting was time limited so there was no chance for debate. A proposal had been put forward to reduce the voting age to 16, which Cornwall Council voted to support. Cllr Roberts noted that before the Brexit referendum 16 year olds would have liked the vote.

Any Other Business

The shop and Alison Olds had been recognised for all their work for the community during COVID by the High Sherriff of Cornwall 2 days earlier. A plaque had been presented to the shop. A congratulations letter would be sent stating how delighted Council was and how well deserved the award was.

It was confirmed that members were happy with the Parish Council working on delegated powers. A further Zoom meeting would be held in September, with delegated powers being granted to the Clerk in the interim.

There being no further business, the Chairman closed the meeting at 20.11pm.
